SUSTAINABLE FASHION

Sydney Bell - Anaëlle Thibault

UPCYCLE SECONDHAND

Our brand/product is upcycling workshops at community centers

The sustainability problem is the landfill population due to fast fashion

We applied the SIT tool of Task Unification and Division

Our innovation is providing educational content around circular fashion and upcycling your clothes. This service is dedicated to empowering communities with financial difficulties

This creates environmental value by enabling communities to extend the lifecycle of their garments and reduce fast fashion's environmental impact.

Customers and the brand would support it because it would enhance its reputation through corporate social responsibility, and consumers will be able to reduce their spending on new clothing and be able to personalize the garments to match their identity.
